- B. The Law School's Title IX Coordinator will annually review all formal and informal complaints of discrimination on the basis of sex (including sexual harassment, sexual assault, and sexual violence), as well as the information collected pursuant to Section VI, below, in order to identify any patterns or systemic problems, and will recommend appropriate action to address any patterns or problems identified.
- C. Effective immediately, the Law School's Title IX Coordinator will be responsible for the following, including ensuring coordination of these tasks if delegated to Title IX deputy coordinators or designees:
1. Continuing to provide information to students and employees regarding their Title IX rights and responsibilities, including information about the resources available on and off campus, the Law School's formal and informal complaint processes, the availability of interim steps, and the ability to file a complaint with the Law School and local law enforcement. Reporting Requirements

1. By January 15, 2015, the Law School will provide documentation to OCR of the steps taken to ensure coordination with any/all Title IX Coordinators and appropriate student services within the Law School and the University, including the HUPD.

complaint decisions. The content of this training will include, at a minimum: the handling of complaints or other reports of sexual harassment, sexual assault and sexual violence, the University's grievance procedures, and confidentiality requirements. In addition, the training will cover the New Law School Procedures, and/or, as applicable, the Interim Policy and Procedures, and information about the Title IX Coordinator and resources available to survivors and complainants.
- C. By October 1, 2015, and by the same date annually thereafter, the Law School will provide a Title IX training program for new staff who interact with students on a regular basis that addresses the training information covered above. V. Information Sessions

- A. By May 1, 2015, and by October 1, 2015 and annually thereafter during the course of the monitoring, the Law School will continue to offer a series of information sessions to all students so that they are aware of the Law School's prohibition against sex discrimination (including sexual harassment, sexual assault, and sexual violence); how to recognize such sex discrimination when it occurs; and how and with whom to report any incidents of sex discrimination. In addition, the sessions will cover the New Law School Procedures and/or, as applicable, the Interim Policy and Procedures, as well as a general overview of Title IX, the rights it confers on students, the resources available to students who believe that they have been subjected to sexual harassment, sexual assault, and sexual violence, and the existence of OCR and its authority to enforce Title IX. These sessions may be provided as part of existing annual orientation programs for new or returning students.

Reporting Requirement

1. By June 30, 2015, and by the same date annually while OCR is monitoring this Agreement, the Law School will provide to OCR documentation demonstrating implementation of Item V.A. above, including a description of each information session and the dates the information sessions were held.

VI. Climate Checks

- A. No later than the 2014-15 academic year, and by no later than the same date annually throughout the monitoring period, the Law School will conduct an assessment of the campus climate to assess the effectiveness of steps taken pursuant to this Resolution Agreement, or otherwise by the Law School, to provide for a campus free of sex discrimination (including sexual harassment, sexual assault, and sexual violence). In conducting such assessment, the Law School will seek input from Law School students and other members of the Law School community (including any complainants and witnesses to sex discrimination), and its annual assessment will include feedback from students regarding incidents of, attitudes toward, and effectiveness of responses to sexual assault and sexual violence. As such, the assessment will include an OCR- approved annual student survey or instrument. The University has established a task force that is charged with considering how the University may improve its efforts at preventing sexual assault and other unwelcome sexual conduct and how the institution can best evaluate the effectiveness of its approach to sexual misconduct, with a particular sensitivity to a holistic approach that focuses on prevention as well as on responsiveness. As part of its work, the task force, in cooperation with several dozen other colleges and universities and a team including methodologists and subject matter experts, is developing a survey that will be used to assess the campus climate at the University, including at the Law School, as well as at other colleges and universities across the nation. By April 15, 2015, the Law School will submit to OCR the survey or instrument it intends to use, and OCR will evaluate whether that survey or instrument satisfies the requirements of this section. The Law School, as necessary and in consultation with OCR, will supplement the survey or instrument during the monitoring period, such as by organizing an open forum information session for students and employees, and designated, publicized walk-in hours for campus community input. The Law School will use the information it gathers to inform future proactive steps taken to provide for a safe educational environment and compliance with Title IX. The Law School will share information gathered and recommendations with the Law School's Title IX Coordinator.

Reporting Requirement

1. By June 30, 2015, and by no later than the same date annually throughout the monitoring period, the Law School will provide documentation to OCR, for its review and approval, demonstrating implementation of Section VI, including any resulting summaries of the information obtained and any proposed and/or completed actions based on that information.

VII. Individual Complaint Reviews

- A. By March 1, 2015, the Law School will review any complaints alleging sexual harassment, including allegations of sexual assault and sexual violence, filed during the 2012-2013 and 2013-2014 academic years to determine whether each complaint was handled consistent with the requirements of Title IX, and with OCR policy regarding sexual harassment and sexual violence. These reviews will carefully scrutinize whether the Law School investigated all complaints, reports or other incidents of sexual assault and sexual violence of which it had notice; promptly and adequately investigated the complaint or report of harassment; provided interim relief to protect the complainant during the pendency of the investigation; provided notice of the outcome of the complaint investigation to the alleged victim and the alleged harasser; took steps to prevent the recurrence of harassment and to address any hostile environment created by the harassment. By the same date, the Law School will submit to OCR for review and approval the results of its review and any actions it proposes to take to ensure that harassment does not recur, and to provide appropriate remedies that may still be available for the complainants in these cases, such as counseling or academic adjustments.
- B. By June 30, 2015, and again by the same date annually during the monitoring of this Agreement, the Law School will submit to OCR copies of all Title IX complaints alleging sexual harassment, including allegations of sexual assault and sexual violence, during the prior academic year. The Law School will provide OCR with documentation related to the investigation of each complaint, such as witness interviews, investigator notes, evidence submitted by the parties, investigative reports and summaries, any final disposition letters, disciplinary records, and documentation regarding any appeals or supplemental hearings. If no Title IX complaint was filed during the year in question, the Law School will so notify OCR in writing.

Reporting Requirements

1. Within 30 days of OCR's approval of the results of the Law School's review and actions proposed by the Law School pursuant to Item VII.A, the Law School will submit documentation to OCR of the implementation of the approved actions.
2. By June 30, 2015, and by the same date annually thereafter, the Law School will provide documentation to OCR demonstrating implementation of Item VII.B, including any resulting summaries of the information obtained and any proposed and/or completed actions based on that information.

The University and the Law School understand that by signing this Agreement, they agree to provide data and other information in a timely manner in accordance with the reporting requirements of this Agreement. Further, the University and the Law School understand that during the monitoring of this Agreement, if necessary, OCR may visit the campus, interview staff and students, and request such additional reports or data as are necessary for OCR to determine whether the University and the Law School have fulfilled the terms of this Agreement and whether the Law School is in compliance with the regulation implementing Title IX, at 34 C.F.R. §§ 106.8, 106.9, and 106.31, which was at issue in this case. The University and the Law School understand that the monitoring period of this Agreement will extend for three years, or until, if later, such time as OCR determines that they have fulfilled the terms of this Agreement and the Law School is in compliance with the regulation implementing Title IX, at 34 C.F.R. §§ 106.8, 106.9 and 106.31.

The University and the Law School understand and acknowledge that OCR may initiate administrative enforcement or judicial proceedings to enforce the specific terms and obligations of this Agreement. Before initiating administrative enforcement (34 C.F.R. §§100.9, 100.10), or judicial proceedings to enforce this Agreement, OCR shall give the University and the Law School written notice of the alleged breach and a minimum of sixty (60) calendar days to cure the alleged breach.
